

CRUISE INDUSTRY ECONOMIC IMPACT WASHINGTON

IN 2019, CRUISING GENERATED:

Washington, home to Holland America Line, Seabourn, Windstar Cruises, and the Port of Seattle, is an important market for the cruise industry. With almost 550 thousand passenger embarkations in 2018, most of Seattle’s cruises were destined for the Alaska cruise market with at least one visit to a Canadian port. As a net importer of cruise passengers, Washington-sourced cruise passengers totaled 302 thousand. Cruising’s direct expenditures in Washington impact tourism-related businesses including travel agencies, airlines and hotels as well as engineering and design companies, food processors and ship repair companies.
